By Towle and Jenks

CLOTH .40

This book includes the most interesting portions of Caesar, and is so carefully edited that the class which has been well drilled on the first two books of the Gallic War will be able to read this readily and with pleasure. Special stress is laid on acquiring a vocabulary.

HALE'S LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION

By WILLIAM GARDNER HALE, Head of the Latin Department, University of Chicago.

Cloth, 50 cents.

The book plans as much material only as can be written in one year; this is assumed to be one lesson a week. The entire ground may therefore be covered without leaving gaps in the pupil's study of constructions. The work is confined to those constructions which are common in Caesar. The sentences are not longer than those in other books, but they follow the narrative, are continuous, and are sensible.

The book contains a vocabulary, and most helpfully arranged tables of case-uses and mood-uses. References are given to all the grammars in common use.

Collar and Daniell's First Year Latin

We have been using First Year Latin since its first publication. I think it prepares pupils as well as any book can prepare them for the difficulties of the later stages of the course, especially in forms and vocabulary. It seems to present the subject in a way to interest the pupils.
